Starflight's Mate

If you've read Moon Rising, you know that Starflight eventually has dragonets, but who would his mate be? I think either Sunny or Fatespeaker.

Probably Fatespeaker, but then again, a dragonet that's 75% NightWing might have black scales. Only Tui knows Probably Fatespeaker, because it didn't have any weird yellow scales. Plus, hybrids cannot reproduce.

!!!BRIGHTEST NIGHT & MOON RISING SPOILERS!!!

For one thing, Starflight's mate is either Fatespeaker or someone we haven't met yet.

For another, hybrids can't reproduce. Think about mules and ligers and animals like that. Sunny is a SandWing-NightWing hybrid. She can't have any dragonets.

I don't like Fatespeaker either. And no, it's extremely rare for a liger to breed, although it has happened (rarely) before.

Fatespeaker is my guess not to mention there was no evidence of yellow scales sandwing barb (I know Sunny does not have one but if she has sandwing DNA maybe....) not to mention there has been a lot of facts that Fatespeaker and Starflight could happen Sunny has already said that she see's Starflight as a brother (same for Clay and Tsunami) I promise I am not trying to break your ships its just I look at possibility's more than anything else sorry if I like ruined for ships or something....

Wellllll, Fatespeaker obviously loves Starflight, but Sunny loves Starflight as a friend. Plus, I would think that being with a dragon for seven years would make you think of that dragon as a friend, not as a love interest. I'm just sayin that I think that Starspeaker is more likely to happen than Sunnyflight.

Sunny would never do that. She made it VERY CLEARISH that she loves Starflight, but ONLY AS A FRIEND.

Fatespeaker, on the other hand, is kinda the opposite of Starflight, and everyone knows that opposites sometimes attract.

There is almost no evidence for Starspeaker, but it is much more likely than Sunnyflight.

OR maybe it wasn't either of them. Maybe it was another Nightwing that he met, in the rainforest, or even in the volcano. It might've even been Princess Greatness. (GASP! WHAT IF IT WAS!!!)

Goign back to the hybrids reproducing comment....

Tui has actually confirmed that these dragon hybrids can reproduce, since she wants Sunny to have her own dragonets one day. This may convince some people that Sunnyflight is more likely, but I'm still sticking with Starspeaker. I'm sorry that I am an obsessed freak. Starspeaker is my OTP.

Yes, in the real world, cross-breed animals can reproduce, but screw that!

When I think Starflight,I think that he even wouldn't really mate with a dragon from another tribe.Not hating on Sunny,but I think she likes Clay a bit and Fatespeaker would be with Starflight.Or Sunny could be sad all the rest of her life and Clay and Peril could hook up.I mean come on!Clay is one of they only few dragons who can touch her!They're bound to hook up at some point!

My theory is (yes, i'm going to use gene mechanics in a WOF theory, go figure), as the majority of starflight's children have nightwing genes, therefore the chance of them having black scales is very high as 75% of their genes are nightwing, therefore it could be Sunny as the mother as she is half nightwing.

Well, in this case, you're wrong. Hybrids can breed. In Darkstalker's book, Whiteout, Darkstalker's sister and an IceWing, NightWing hybrid, was able to have eggs with Thoughtful, a Nightwing, and the eggs would be 75% NightWing and 25% Icewing. But if Whiteout wasn't fertile, then there would be no animus dragons, since Darkstalker was trapped, and no Stonemover, or Sunny. So therefore, mixed-tribe hybrids can breed, which means, technically, Sunny could be Starflight's mate.

It's doubtable, since I'm 94% sure Starspeaker will happen. I think somewhere else I read, Tui mentioned a perfect dragon for Sunny, someone we've met, idk.

#RipSunnyflight

Just to be sure I'm all for Sunnyflight, and to be frank, I do not like Fatespeaker.
